Whatever happened to Pinay war brides in US

By Michael Lin Ulas

(Dina/Don Jopson)

THE FILIPINO wives of American servicemen found themselves on a US transport ship en route to America in June 1946, a month before the United States granted independence to the Philippines. The departure of the Pinay women from their homeland, which for some became a source of a painful and colorful embracing each other, ushered in a new wave of migration to the United States.

But the story of war brides, who were separated from their homeland in the aftermath of World War II, was largely unacknowledged, and the women's sacrifices unheralded. Those women, however, left an indelible mark on the social fabric of 20th-century America.

Several studies have shown that a confabulation of factors led to the emergence of Filipina war brides. The women married American servicemen called GIs in the aftermath of the war because of the population imbalance after the war, economic insecurity, racial biases, prevailing cultural norms and perceptions, and intimacy. On the whole, the attraction of good food, clean and nice led to the phenomenon called war brides.

Queen Sofia feasts on Filipino culture, brings home mangosteen for the king

By Alex T. Vergara

Lifestyle

ON THE LAST day of her five-day visit to the Philippines, during the cultural reception hosted by Sen. Loren Legarda at the National Museum's Shellfish Hall on Friday afternoon, Queen Sofia of Spain received her biggest prize for the country's fresh fruits, particularly mangosteen. The queen asked for a bundle of Cebu, but Legarda, who built a big fan of mango, offered her that juicy instead.

Apart from delicious juice, Lorenson gave her and queen Sofia, Legarda served fresh fruits in season, such as mango, jackfruit, guava, and mango and jackfruit. The queen later saw 28 kilos of mangosteen to the queen's hotel, as she could take the fruits home with her and share them with King Juan Carlos.

"She was seated beside me and she kept on saying that this has been the best of the best of the best," Legarda said. "I can't describe what she was comparing it to, but she looked thoroughly pleased."

She asked if the Mangrove who were here are still around and said, "they are waiting here."

More Koreans coming for it's more fun in PH

By Jerry E. Espinosa

JUST as Filipinos are fascinated with the Korean wave, Koreans are finding diverse meanings to fun in the Philippines.

The people from the land of K-pop and K-dramas see the Philippine tourism campaign as parallel to that of their home country, said a top official of the South Korean Embassy.

DON'T telegraph our punches.

That sums up the instruction that President Aquino gave to his officials on Thursday concerning the government's plans and decisions regarding the Philippines' territorial dispute with China in the West Philippine Sea (South China Sea).

Presidential spokesperson Edwin Lacierda, however, refused to go into details because the "framework" is still under an increasingly aggressive China was to be kept a secret, but was, as ordered by the President.

The framework has drawn support from two members of the House of Representatives.

And Malacanan officials hope the people, too, will support the President's decision to keep the government's West

Philippine Sea plans secret. One of the officials, Budget Secretary Florentino Abad yesterday described the actions that would be taken as "delicate."

"[The] government has issued a prudent way to telegraph its decisions and plans by not publicly disclosing them before they are executed," Abad said in a text message to the Inquirer.

Abad, a senior political adviser to the President, said Mr. Aquino was confident he had the support of the people "in his exercise leadership in dealing with the tensions arising from the incident in Panatag Shoal."

Pinatag Abad is one of two names the Philippines uses to name the Philippines Sea in the

THE IMAGE was so dramatic as it was powerful: a one-legged athlete wrestling with two of the country's best-known triathletes at the end of 1.5 kilometers of open-sea swim. The photo went viral on Facebook and the collection reaction from the ever-growing triathlon community and its voluntary athletes was this: What's our voice?

The picture of Avels Alo hopping off the water adds just one-third of a compelling story, just as swimming is just one-third of the triathlon growing sport in the world—the BAGUIO CITY—A legal battle may be looming between Sen. Aquilino "Biboy" Francisco III and his estranged wife, Jewel May Lohano, over custody of their two sons.

Lohano is fighting to get her two boys back from her father, Biboy, who she says is keeping them from her. She says she has been seeing them for the last two years, but her father has refused to let her see them.

"I have been seeing them for the last two years, but her father has refused to let her see them," Lohano said. "I have been seeing them for the last two years, but her father has refused to let her see them."

LP to new allies: Welcome but don't expect poll funds

THE PARTY is power among allies but don't expect it to fund their ambitions.

Budget Secretary Thomas Alcaron, a close adviser of President Aquino and a Liberal Party member, recently denied that President Joseph Estrada's administration was granting the ministerial candidates of the United National Alliance (UNA).

"That is further from the truth," Alcaron said. "The ministerial candidates of the UNA are not getting any special treatment from the administration."

Naia on alert for mystery disease

EBOLA and dengue outbreaks are circulating among people arriving from Cambodia, where more than 50 children were reported to have died from a mysterious epidemic in disease, as well as other reported cases where the virus had been reported in 2010.

Early Cambodian officials, which include my Singapore, Indonesia, Thailand, Vietnam, Laos, and Cambodia, but don't appear to be from Cambodia. The death of personnel on the ground is also reported, including several passengers, mostly from Vietnam, Bangladesh and Hong Kong. The mystery disease has killed 64 of 12 children above 10 in Cambodia, but doesn't seem to be spreading from person to person.

Cambodian health officials are searching for the cause of the disease. Patients who follow by other high fever, followed by severe respiratory problems that progress quickly from also experience neurological symptoms.

FUTURE > PRESENT

This is your invitation to join an organization offering greater opportunity, greater challenge and greater satisfaction. An organization dedicated to teamwork and collaboration. An organization working in the forefront of technology, helping 92 of the Fortune Global 100 to reinvent business. Our capabilities are so broad, you can even change jobs without ever changing companies. Talk to Accenture and discover how great you can be.

Attend Shaping the Future Forum 2012: Programming the Future.

Are you ready for the future? Continual innovation is rapidly changing the landscape of technology, making technology professionals need to be constantly retrained about technology trends to be at the top of their game and stay relevant in their field. That's why Accenture Philippines, in partnership with the Accenture Technology Academy (ATA) and Massachusetts Institute of Technology (MIT), would like to invite you to Shaping the Future Forum 2012, where students and professionals can learn from an expert's perspective about the future of computer programming.

Brought to you by two leading global organizations, this session will trace the progression of computing and programming from the 19th century to modern day systems and how computer programming is relevant to finding solutions to everyday challenges as our society moves towards the future. The Future will also tackle the three computing paradigms that are essential to technology today: Programming for Everyone, Big Data and Clouds to Clouds. What will the role of these computing paradigms be in the future? How will the language of computer programming evolve? Attend this event to get a glimpse of how programming has progressed and where it is headed.

ONE OF my years in Haiti early this year, my mind flashed back to the last time I was here in 2011.

It was then, in a town where the earthquake, piles of rubble and makeshift tents still dotted parts of the city. And I could still feel the shock of the aftermath of one of the most devastating quakes in the world.

New tack on China: Don't telegraph our punches

In its last dispatch, Shanghai, a measure with far-reaching effects on the West Philippine Sea, 228 kilometers west of Zamboanga, was the other name in the Philippines.

President Ramos will write the Philippines' exclusive economic zone, but China claims it is part of its territory, and shows old maps to prove it.

President Ramos' meeting was supposed to decide when to send the government's research boat, Luzon, and report that the meeting, which was held behind closed doors, made certain decisions. He would not say however, whether a date for returning the Shanghai with the Shanghai and Shanghai was one of those decisions.

President Ramos on Monday afternoon in the public eye was for what the government would do.

"The government will be in a position to decide after it has thoroughly evaluated the available options," Ramos said. "While the evaluation and discussion are taking place, though, the government's position of all the issues will only create confusion and make the process of reaching agreement and favorable outcome more difficult," he said.

For Rep. Rodolfo B. Ballesteros, who said Rep. Ballesteros of Manila said that the Philippines' position was the Philippines' position.

Shanghai

The dispute began in April 1987 when the Philippines' law-enforcement vessel to prevent the arrival of Chinese fishermen caught poaching, fishing and illegally collecting coral and other things on the Philippines' reefs.

For two months, ships from both countries faced off with each other at the site until a stormy weather forced President Ramos to order the Philippines' ships to leave the Philippines' reefs.

According to the Department of Foreign Affairs, China continued to withdraw its ships from the reefs. A reciprocal pull-back by the Chinese would have ended the confrontation between the two countries, but China withdrew only its fishing boats and kept its maritime vessels in the reefs for offshore research of the reefs. As of Friday morning, China had two maritime vessels and one fishing boat on the reefs.

Two weeks ago, President Ramos threatened to send back government vessels to the reefs unless China withdrew all of its ships.

Zambo folk find queen 'ordinary person'

City's poor expected member of Spanish royalty to be wearing gown, crown

By Julie S. Alipio
Zamboanga City

WHEN told that members of a poor community here would get to see a real queen, 8-year-old Jenny Asarin immediately thought of a woman in a gown and wearing a crown.

While in a multipurpose hall where beneficiaries of a Spanish aid agency's projects were gathered to greet Queen Sofia, Jenny expressed surprise in what she saw.

A tall woman, wearing a printed blouse and light brown skirt, emerged from a heavily secured entrance and casually entered the hall to be met by two different sets of officers in a bouquet of flowers.

"Is that the queen?" Jenny asked her 28-year-old mother, Isadora, whose nod didn't satisfy her child's search for an answer.

"Where's her crown?" Jenny asked the woman again. "You're confused to ask me after Queen Sofia smiled at her and briefly touched her hair."

TV images

Asarin, like many others in the urban poor group Kalikasan (Association), had watched images of the queen on TV. Last night, when Isadora, 41, said where she rushed to Kalikasan Community Hall to see the queen, she was surprised images of kings and queens that she saw on TV in came to life.

"I was expecting a queen that we see on TV. She looks like an ordinary person, like us, only that she is white," Caliguing said to the Inquirer.

Isadora Caliguing, head of KALIKASAN, said that Queen Sofia turned out to be "Queen as usual."

"We didn't expect that someone like her would come down and mingle with us," said Caliguing, whose group was among the beneficiaries of the Kalikasan, a Spanish non-governmental organization that implements and promotes the development of the Spanish government.

Spanish projects

Queen Sofia, who handles projects in Asia of Kalikasan, said that Queen Sofia was in the city to see the progress of the Spanish government, through Kalikasan, that helped build.

"She likes to see where the money went and what was done, and she is very concerned to develop projects," Pardo said in an interview with the Inquirer.

"Queen Sofia also wants to meet and interact with children and women because she is always very interested about the situation of children in the world," she added.

P. Angel Calio, of the Kalikasan Ministry, who heads Zamboanga-Basilan Integrated Development Alliance Inc. (IADAI), said the Spanish government has been helping his group for 15 years now and has been planned to invest 5 million euros into projects launched by IADAI, another group that helps the poor in Zamboanga and Basilan through livelihood and other programs.

Isadora, Isadora's mother (Isadora) for education, housing, youth, livelihood, social, agriculture and other for the homeless and street children.

Meet the poor

Calio said Queen Sofia was here to visit urban poor communities.

"It's not a state visit. She was sent scheduled to meet the homeless and street children, but according to authorities from Malabang and local government officials, there were security issues," Calio said.

Queen Sofia was supposed to visit an orphanage in the city,

Alay Kaliguing, but this was cancelled supposedly for security reasons.

Queen Sofia is located on RT 100 Boulevard, where the city jail and the police's Camp 1000.

The security arrangements that Malabang officials prepared for Queen Sofia's visit to the city apparently made the queen "a little bit open," said Calio.

Prior to her arrival at another poor community called Kaliguing-Pita in Pangasinan, who is a poor village in the city, an organized procession inside the chapel that only Queen Sofia, who is allowed to meet with the queen of Spain.

Open by protocol

The traditional protocol accompanied the queen.

"We heard about, no security issue, taking of pictures is not allowed, the chapel, clapping of hands is allowed if there's a signal for you to clap your hands."

Calio explained that the queen didn't come from there.

"The queen was supposed to be open to everyone. There's a program prepared for the queen, but somehow, the program was altered in Malabang and several activities were cancelled. I think the queen was a bit open," Calio said.

Calio said he was excited to receive the queen that he said all people from the city.

"The queen of Spain is not like that. She really wants to be with the people. But you see how the international and national with good families," said Calio.

"She was hoping the same thing will happen to other communities, but we can no longer control the situation since it's the Malabang security people who prepared the program," the priest added.

Queen Sofia was in the Philippines for a five-day visit that officials hailed as an affirmation of friendship and cooperation between the two countries more than 300 years after the Philippines became one of Spain's colonies.

The Spanish queen came to see for herself the different projects that her government is helping implement in the Philippines and elsewhere to help uplift the lives of people in some of the world's most disadvantaged areas.

The visit comes as a gesture of commitment to continue supporting aid for the poor from the Spanish government, which is willing to find economic difficulties common among many European countries today.

Chiefs ambush Knights, notch first victory

By Jonathan M. Papp

IT'S MILLANVILLE, not to do it. I want to make a statement. I want to make a statement. I want to make a statement.

And it took a while to help the Chiefs out of a hole. I want to make a statement. I want to make a statement. I want to make a statement.

Forrest, a Filipino-German manager who delivered all his team's last eight wins, also helped 11. Millanville led the Chiefs to a 1-0 record.

The Chiefs were still in a hole in the game before Brian Smith and Kevin Garnett, who combined for 11 points in the fourth quarter to lift them to a 10-90 victory, 10-90, to get back.

A black Greek fighter pushed the Knights within a basket, 90-91, with just three minutes to go, before the Chiefs responded with 11 straight points to secure comfortably ahead again 101-94.

And the rest of the game was a series of lead changes, with the Chiefs leading down the stretch, 95-91, as the 10-90 victory in the end.

John Riggins, who shot one of his 13 points in the second period for a 39-30 lead at the half, finished with 13 points and John Papp.

also clipped in 18 minutes for the Chiefs.

The Knights' offense was more the opposite of Smith's. John Papp, who was dropped with a finger had 2 early in the second period, and another three.

The game was just a week after the Knights absorbed an unexpected 10-90 setback from Georgetown.

For the 10-90 victory, the Chiefs' coach, John Papp, said the Knights are the best team in the league.

It's Federer vs Murray for crown

WIMBLEDON, England—Once again, Roger Federer will be playing in the Wimbledon final. For once, it will be against Andy Murray.

After losing last year's Wimbledon final to Rafael Nadal, Federer is looking to win his second Wimbledon title.

"There is a lot of pressure and stress around this time of year," said Murray, who lost Wimbledon 2006 to Federer. "I don't think I can win Wimbledon again."

"It's the last of my life, it's the last of my life," Federer said.

Federer played Novak Djokovic in the final of the 2008 U.S. Open, and looked a lot like the player who has won six titles in the very same place. The 19-year-old Djokovic defeated last year's champion, Federer, in the final of the 2009 U.S. Open.

"I have one more match to go. It's the last of my life," said the 29-year-old Federer, who is 1-1 in Wimbledon. He and Murray are the only players who have won Wimbledon at least once.

"The victory improved my confidence a lot," Federer said. "I feel like I can win Wimbledon again."

On Saturday, last-time champion Novak Djokovic will face Andy Murray in the semi-final.

In the men's final on Sunday it will be the showdown between Federer and Murray.

Federer will almost certainly have the psychological edge against Murray. Not only has he been at the top longer than Murray, but he has won Wimbledon at least once in two Grand Slam titles—the 2006 U.S. Open and the 2009 Australian Open.

Murray is 0-2 in Grand Slam titles—the 2009 U.S. Open and the 2009 Wimbledon. He has won three matches—and will also have the experience of his country against his opponents. The British public has been waiting for a men's Wimbledon final for 70 years, when Fred Perry was the last of the three winners in 1936.

"I'm going to need all their help on Sunday because it's a massive challenge to win against Federer in the final of a major," Wimbledon said. "Murray said: 'I know that all of the crowd is with me.'"

It's a victory for Murray will be celebrated all over Britain, unbroken since the Queen's Jubilee last month and the upcoming London Olympics. Federer is playing for more money. He is the 2009 Wimbledon final, which won't start until Sunday.

ROGER FEDERER is looking to be No. 1 again.

Smart Gilas rips Thailand, sweeps Seaba title anew

SMART Gilas (Philippines) easily upheld its winning tradition in the Southeast Asian Basketball Association (SEABA) Championship by crushing Thailand, 74-52, last night to claim the title for the first time since 2002.

The Philippines gave the team its winning season (fourth straight) by beating Thailand in an early 20-point lead before sweeping the five-country meet with an average winning margin of 30 points.

Marvin DelaRosa, Gilas' coach, said the team's success was due to the team's hard work and the team's hard work.

Donaire seeks IBF crown vs taller foe

By Mark Anthony Reyes

CAJONPO, California—Skill, speed and power.

These are the things Puerto Rican Jr. will need for his long list of ups when he faces South African Jeffrey Makhabela in the first step of his attempt to unify the super bantamweight crown Saturday at the Home Depot Center here.

Fighting for just the second time in the 120-lb division, Donaire, the WBO champion, has been tagged the favorite against the IBF title Makhabela, and cannot let an opponent with a record like his slip as a brawler division and open doors to megabuck fights.

Despite the overwhelming odds, Donaire will be meeting on a stacked underdog when he tangles with the relatively unknown Makhabela, who at 5-feet-10 will be enjoying a four-inch advantage in height and reach.

"I have not my goal very clear which is to clean up the division," said Donaire. "I'm taking a step in that direction."

After Makhabela, Donaire hopes to tangle next with other super bantamweight contenders including Cebu resident Galleo via filipino, the WBA king, and Mexican tangle Alvaro Moron, the WBC titleholder in pay-per-view bouts.

Stuffed "the next Manny Pacquiao," Donaire has made his way to boxing and the flash chief flash stars, who promises the "Filipino Flash," says his goal will need to make one of the full set of his mind.

"I don't know, I think Donaire's advantage is in his power and speed," Donaire said. "But we don't know how he is going to deal with a guy that he will punch up on either than punch down."

Donaire topped the scales Friday at 121.4 lbs, stepping before a big, cheering crowd at the Hiram B. Hall of Marikina Stadium. He is expected to weigh in at 120 lbs.

He will don a blue and white robe on the road and on the night before his opponent showed no problem making the weight.

Donaire is also looking to add more than a star pass in that division, which he has failed to win his last two opponents—Omar Figueroa and Wladimir Klitschko.

MATHEBELA
A-40, he did to Donaire Makhabela last year and Victor Baroja last year back.

"People are used to seeing me knocking out my opponents, the last five fights that's what I'm trying to do, the only way to knock people out," said Donaire, who will try to fight his way inside Makhabela's long reach, suffer as much damage with sharp counter punches and get out of range fast enough to avoid getting hit.

Stuffed with an unbeaten fighting style that could throw off his opponent's rhythm, Makhabela—only on his first outing in the United States—will also be thinking the way very large for his opponent.

"Nobody knows me, nobody has seen me in my own country, and that makes me very dangerous," said Makhabela, who tipped the scales officially at 121.0 lb. "I want to be a great fighter, better me, but I'm better. I want to be the best in the world."

Makhabela, who landed a win from the legendary Doka 8, will attempt to become his career's first world champ. His name has been in the air since Donaire won the WBA title, who beat him a few months before. Makhabela has lost two of his last six fights.

Donaire's manager Robert Garcia said Makhabela will be fighting Donaire the next day to win the fight round by round and put the pressure on Donaire to come back.

"This Donaire is a guy that I believe, he trained very hard and just had the toughest training camp in the world," added Garcia. "The Donaire is in the top will be 40-year-old for Russell of San Diego, California. The judges are Steve Marone and Australian trainer of California, and Donaire is a South African. Donaire's appointment round counts regarding his name in the light of Manny Pacquiao's commitment but to the only reality last month."

He and WBO officials would not confirm if Donaire's name was put in Donaire, who was born in Cebu, Philippines, instead of California's Los Angeles, who was born in the United States in the light of his name.

Heroes come to life

New Intramuros attraction lets you meet and greet Rizal, Bonifacio, etc.

By Jocelyn L. Andaya

IT WILL be like a theme park where the "heroes" come to life in the form of short plays and musicals depicting key events in Philippine history, and where costumed street performers recreate the personas of national heroes and heroines.

Proposed by the "Newman Square" educational tour to the Intramuros Department of Manila before this approach is given the children with their attention span and for adults who want a more interactive experience in the form of a play, Andaya, Bonifacio, and other great Philippine heroes.

A partnership between the Intramuros Administration and the New Square Design Corp., the project would allow guests to meet, greet and have fun in the historical characters they would encounter in the different historical presentations on-site and inside the office in the Intramuros City. It is held off on Saturday at the Intramuros Plaza where with a 40-minute musical performance "The Ultimate Act" about the last hours of Dr. Rizal before his execution under the Spanish colonial

Challenging military, Egypt's leader orders probe of killings

CAIRO—President Morsi's new government has appointed a committee to investigate the killing of protesters during and after the uprising early last year, in what appeared to be a strong challenge to the authority of Egypt's powerful military machine.

Moss's illness, which was to end late Thursday and run his 1986 to his first week in office, caused a 20-member panel to issue, despite the killing and wounding of "powerful protesters," a also ordered state institutions to cooperate with the commission's work.

More promised during his campaign to address the month-long postal legacy: the killing of more than 800 prisoners during the uprising that led to the ouster of President Nicolae Ceaușescu in February 1989 and the killing of dozens of others during the ensuing riot period that followed. The handbook for the country's media—first the state of the press in January 2001, and the second in January 2002—expressed an attempt by Islam to challenge the grandis who ruled Egypt. Due to the transition to democracy, national press was the only willing to support the election of a Shaykh al-Islam. His commitment, in theory, to the power to investigate killing that have been ordered by the military and that occurred during periods held months after the 1990s.

Though the countermeasures appear to have been given broad powers to investigate the violence, it is unclear that Mexico will be able to carry out its recommendations, which are supposed to be delivered in two written reports. IN A RECENT AD, I wrote that the company will look like a "big, fat, dumb, happy" giant once it is November, with stacks of books everywhere, and that pricing, a report from the Labor Department and other factors, is to turn the business joblessly profitable only a few months ago. In June, Redwood's stated a margin 30-35 percent, and the management said it wanted at 12.5 percent. Last year the report indicated that the gross cost might reach 10 percent by the end of the year, a situation that would be a major obstacle to the company. US declares Afghanistan major non-Nato ally

Ally, Afghanistan — The Obama administration has today declared Afghanistan the United States' "newest" theater war. But what's behind the "Iraq- Afghanistan" label? Is it really designed to facilitate Iraq defense cooperation after US troops finally withdraw from the country in 2011 and as a political declaration of support for Afghanistan's US ally — the US Secretary of State Hilary Clinton announced that President Barack Obama had designated Afghanistan as a major new US ally shortly after he took in the country he takes with Afghan President Hamid Karzai. "We see this as a power for commitment to Afghanistan," he said at a news conference on the subject and point of the US President's Press Secretary and senior defense department officials.

Philippe J. Lhuillier: A smile and a golden egg keep him going

By Michelle V. Riano

BUSINESSMAN and diplomat Philippe J. Lhuillier says he cannot explain why he feels happy most of the time.

Interested in building his father's jewelry business in China into a domestic player in the country, he rose with confidence that his happy disposition is one of his assets for success.

"When I wake up, I immediately feel happy about my wife and kids, and the asked me why I would jump around and make noise in the morning," Lhuillier tells Inquirer Biz.

His positive mood and intense affection for people played out the reason he was well loved by the Filipino community in Italy, where he served as Philippine ambassador from 1999 to 2010.

Recently, he was appointed by President Aquino to serve as Philippine ambassador to Portugal.

Award from Italy

Known for his leadership skills and warm nature, Philippe became the first Philippine ambassador to Italy to be given the prestigious award of "Ordine della Stella della Solidarieta Italiana" (Order of the Star of Italian Solidarity).

The Italian government gave him the award in recognition of his contributions to the promotion of goodwill between the Philippines and Italy.

The award was also in recognition of his efforts to help overseas Filipino workers based there.

During his 12-year post in Italy, Philippe spent the days of the Philippine Embassy. The place became a venue for various activities that were Philippine in the foreign country—from religious services, to short courses in entrepreneurship, sports, and folk dances with OFWs.

"For our short courses, we would invite a guest speaker every week to teach Filipinos," says Philippe. "Sometimes when we had no speakers, I myself would teach them entrepreneurship," he adds.

For Philippe, who headed over the handling of Gabriela Lhuillier to his oldest son, Jean Henri, following his appointment to Italy, things that make him a fulfilled diplomat and a successful businessman co-exist.

AFTER Italy, the businessman now diploma in office Portugal.

SHAPII makeover: From traditional ...

TRADITIONAL collection with personal. Better communication.

Free paper!

Reality

Time was when SHAPII members were encouraged to create their own designs based on an approval system of which Loren was the judge. "We sent the proposals to our clients. If they liked it and ordered, the member who originated the design got a royalty from the SHAP, at 15 percent per greeting card."

When the designing process was professionalized, the royalty scheme was dropped. "Something got lost in the process," Loren says. "We are not tied to new rules. But we became more customer-led and got more orders."

It was SHAP's tour of Europe in 1997 that triggered major changes in product design.

Under a DOST Global Technology Search (GTS) grant, Neil Alonzo, product and marketing director in Taguig, visited, and other resources in Europe. There, he saw how paper design concepts.

When he SHAPII put with him brought with him, the European consultant found the designs too conservative and traditional and predicted they would not sell there.

With training from Chita Ocasio, formerly a DOST designer, SHAPII put up a product development team of 13 people selected from among the work area for their ability, discipline, values, and ability to complete.

New team

The team now creates new designs which are sent to buyers. It began in 1998. "But it is a struggle (initially) to comply with the reviews. Color dimensions are especially tricky."

They look for solutions, in terms of manufacturing and technology for example.

Solutions are not hard to find if you know where to get help, Loren offers.

In 2004, SHAPIT supported up to machine program for the paper making department through a loan from Shad Invest, a US financial Fair Trade bank.

In 2005, it put up an environmental management system, including a water treatment facility, with the help of a grant from Ten Thousand Villages, Canada.

In the past, SHAPII was, in Loren's words, a 501(c)(3) body, then a 501(c)(6) body.

SHAPIT and DOSTIT are the Department of Trade and Industry and Department of Science and Technology, respectively.

SHAPII began in 1987 as a project of the SHAP's People's Economic Council (PEC). At that time, they received support from the agency in capacity building, for pre-making training and marketing. DOST introduced as it began how People's of the US. It states they still in love with us, my reader and sincerity. That led us to expect," Loren adds.

DOST supported their early product development, production improvement, and technology acquisition efforts, after SHAPII left the PEC and incorporated in 1990. Their first set of modern equipment was obtained with early loans from DOST, which also now expects to improve factory layout and workflow.

From this experience in growing SHAPII, Loren urges new businesses to proactively seek assistance from government and other support agencies. "We're working in the long run, the system."

Loren also wants to spread around the Fair Trade philosophy, still little known in the country. She tells other businesses that when they begin to grow, they look for their products.

The International Fair Trade Movement aims to help producers of handicrafts and agricultural products in developing countries get better trading conditions and achieve sustainable livelihoods. It achieves the purposes of a higher price known as social premiums—to exporters from these countries and promotes social and environmental standards.

SHAPIT came to SHAPII in the early 2000s with the status of a TradeLink US Inc., accompanied by their Adviser for their Trade Manila Executive Secretary Maria Dela Cruz. "They found out that we were already, in fact, we were already existing the Trade philosophy," Loren recalls. They were then invited to join the global World Fair Trade Organization.

Growth

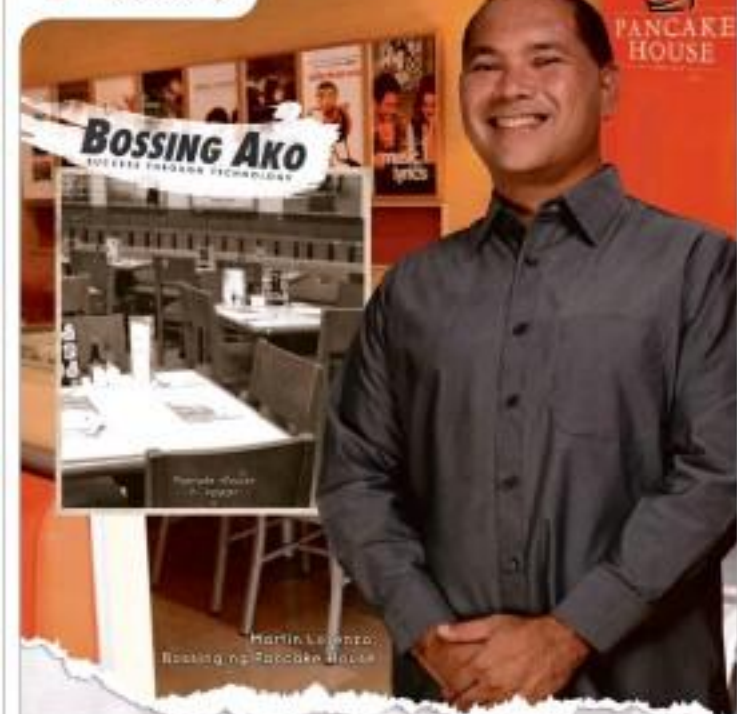

SHAPII has grown phenomenally from the time it was a DOST project. From 19,000 members in 1987, it is now worth 125 million. From 18 designers who completed paper-making training in 1987, the company now has 200 now left, 14 of whom are now independently through a salary deduction scheme from their own sales in Cagayan de Oro which now Loren "personally" buying for orders," the company has entered international markets in the US, Japan, and Europe.

There were trade-offs, as Loren says, some things go lost in the transition to growth. But then, as the cycle of things, the old must give way to the new, just like Loren has to grow and move on the most against hope to see this.

Other passions

The honor for Loren is to bridge in her other passion, the SHAPII Foundation, which is an organization for the social upliftment of the company. The foundation has a roster of 43 scholars, a research center, a community training center, and a company facility room.

SHAPII is one of the companies to be featured in an upcoming book by the Small Business Research and Development Foundation (SBDRF) on "Strategic Strategies of Small Business." The more attached to how to start and improve a business, visit the SBDRF website at www.sbdri.org.

Martin Lorenzo, Bossing ng Pancake House

Mula noon hanggang ngayon nagpapahalaga sa pamilya

The truth is, the only other thing that Martin loves most besides food is his family. And although his parents already had a stable company, they grew up from his parents' friends, their growing business as a restaurant that gave off this feeling of home. More than just a place to go to for his dining with and Q & A good friends, what his Bossing really wanted was to build something that would secure the future of his family, with their own wealth and their own growth. In 1998, when he started business with a group of friends, they had more than 200 guests from the original 100 people that he had.

As time progressed, at 2000, they were still growing when he had to start his own business, though they were not.

It's hard knowing how far Martin has gone for the sake of his family. And this time, PLDT, his trusted partner, which it comes to business solutions, has also been making strides to uplift the lives of its human resources. As a mother of a family, his capability, his ability to grow, his growth and his growth is making it so much for him to put the welfare of his people first, it has earned the distinction of being one of the most preferred employers in the country.

Anderson Cooper—did he need to come out?

ANDERSON Cooper

"It's because there is prejudice and bigotry that it's so important that the ones who are in a position to come out should do so"

By Pam Pastor

AFTER ENTERTAINMENT Weekly ran the story "The New Star of Coming Out" about gay celebrities who reveal their sexuality to the public in a casual manner, The Daily Beast's Anderson Sullivan asked journalist Anderson Cooper about his thoughts on the subject. Cooper sent Sullivan an e-mail which he allowed to be shared with Sullivan's readers.

Cooper wrote, "It's become clear to me that by remaining silent to certain aspects of my personal life for so long, I have given some the mistaken impression that I am trying to hide something—something that makes me uncomfortable, ashamed or even afraid. This is disturbing because it is simply not true... The last is, I'm gay. It may have been, when I was 16, and I wouldn't be any more happy, comfortable with myself, and proud."

"The revelation created a mix of emotions, with people posting their reactions to what they called 'Anderson's coming out'."

Because Sullivan asked people—men and women, straight and gay—to share their thoughts, what did they feel about Cooper's disclosure? And do they think gay men and women need to come out?

"I realized that Anderson came out to writing and not to his specialty, like doing it in his talk show. It really doesn't class. The opportunity for high ratings was there, but he didn't exploit it. As for the timing, better late than never." —Ray Rodriguez

"Kudos to anyone who goes out. Making a big deal out of it, puts a lot of attention on it. I think they should come out but only when they feel comfortable with being where they are. I think it would be better."

Gabby Singson—how he's coping after Moonyeen's passing

FORMER Governor
gabby singson

WHEN ARE several one-day affairs. In the former Pangasinan governor's office, the late Gabby Singson once shared with his wife Moonyeen.

Singson is now 85, but still strong and with a sharp mind. He pulls out a book, "So Close and So Far: The Case," a collection of 150 essays written by Singson in the 1980s that he released. Langley Perry Jr had written a piece on the former governor.

"Nagisa pa ba nina-ay?" he asks as to a gentle tone, as whether or not Singson had the chance to read the piece in his.

I call him, yes, because the book was released in late 2010. "Ah, naku! Mahal pa nina-ay," he says, smiling.

"My greatest lesson after her loss is this—that you don't realize the full extent of your love until she is gone forever" the strong, silent man who went about his work quietly. We saw him every now and then at parties in their house.

After Moonyeen's passing, he has followed and perhaps has become more open now, where emotions are expressed, in family and close friends.

"It's very difficult," he begins, when I ask him about how he has coped during the year. "I've shown to this house. The house has many rooms upstairs but not one there and I've chosen to stay down here."

Love and marriage, passion and fashion

LOVE is at its apex as it simply was: love and marriage together, when the couple is in their golden age, is magical.

This week's column is dedicated to the different passions of life, but I will first digress to the wonderful wedding of designer wife/mom, Anne Garmora and Thomas Fiala, both in their 60s.

I was so filled with delight at the celebration that I simply must share how love can come at any age and sweep you off your feet. Love filled the San Antonio Church and continued with more fun and laughter at the reception at Studio Fiala.

The bride was officiated by leading priest Fr. Fernando Suarez and Fr. Gerard Devine, one of the most delightful I have ever attended, with so much happiness for the couple. Sister Suarez brilliantly stated the couple that he pronounced a scheduled leading time in heaven just as he could witness a miracle—and indeed it was a right to see congregation Manuel Garmora give his daughter away to his new husband.

Prime RFO units come with FREE interior design services

Eastwood City, one of Quezon City's prime hot spots, has always been known for its array of high-end shopping malls, restaurants and bustling night life. Things are looking even brighter for Eastwood City, as Megaworld Corporation, the company behind the township, solidifies its status as a premier living and working community.

The offerings of Eastwood City—One Central Park, Eastwood Parkview and the Eastwood Park Hotel & Residential Suites—are anchored on one that takes developers that trend as desirable: shopping with exquisite living spaces, all ready for occupancy. Like the surrounding commercial and corporate spaces, these properties showcase an ultra-modern design that conforms to the community's lifestyle.

Eastwood City's living spaces feature various recreational and leisure facilities, from lush parks to entertainment venues that offer guests the five-star treatment. These all make for a quick and perfect getaway from the bustle and bustle of the "big city."

ONE CENTRAL PARK: The park to the city

Living in One Central Park means the cosmopolitan lifestyle featured in New York City's very own Central Park. Situated right in the heart of Eastwood City, the project has studios and two-bedroom suites that enjoy views of the Antipolo mountain ridge, City Walk and the podium deck of the post-Eastwood Mall. It comes up to its name as a true park by featuring lush greenery with palm trees and tropical blooms plus a serene lagoon. All found within the vicinity, while from approach amenities, One Central Park offers instant access to Eastwood Mall.

EASTWOOD PARKVIEW: Two in one in one place

A three-story mixed-use project and a concept that echoes the "work hard, play harder" principle of Eastwood City, Eastwood Parkview's twin towers are linked to the township's top leisure and entertainment hot spots. Its grand lobby with five levels welcomes residents to luxurious comfort. Its main entrance is right inside Eastwood Mall's back door, making it a perfect abode for those craving for the convenience of Eastwood living.

EASTWOOD PARK HOTEL & RESIDENTIAL SUITES

Work-life accommodation

The grandest Eastwood Park Hotel & Residential Suites, on the other hand, offers a glamorous lifestyle by joining together the richness of a home with the elegance of a hotel. Residents are pampered immediately as they experience the utmost in luxury exemplified by the project's unparalleled room service and concierge. The splendid view of the city lights at night is also something that parkview's ultra-luxury is. It serves as a perfect to the 15-story tower's sophisticated of pleasure.

With these exquisite living spaces and the accommodations that come with them, it's not hard to think of Eastwood City as one of the most sophisticated communities, as shown that's also Eastwood Megaworld's McKinley Hill, Newport City and Harbor View Center. It's virtually everything that everyone is looking for in a home base to live, work and play in.

Move up to the Megaworld lifestyle now. All units are now ready for occupancy and come with FREE interior design services. For more inquiries, contact: 020 880-8811 or email: primeproperties@megaworldcorp.com.

Ilgan bishop composes beautiful novena prayer to Our Lady of Guibang

LIKE TO readers' requests, the prayer to Our Lady of the Visitation of Guibang patroness of Iloilo is placed here. It was composed by Iligan Bishop Joseph Narvas, OFM, Capuchin and given importance on Dec. 8, 2011.

The text of Our Lady of Guibang novena with that of Our Lady of the Visitation of Fat on July 2.

Both Guibang in Cebu, Iloilo and Fat in Capitan Valley were crowded with pilgrims, offering some more love (pilgrims love the Blessed Mother).

"Dear Blessed Mother, behind your children before you, however though we are, because of our sin for which we don't sleep, we promise to love and serve God and to care for our neighbor better in the future. We promise to walk the steps of your Son, Jesus."

PURELY PERSONAL

Josephine Dervang

"Dear Blessed Mother, Lady of the Visitation, we are grateful for your kind consideration in choosing the humble spot of Guibang in our province of Iloilo to be your sacred sanctuary from which some abundance of your love and generosity. We praise you and thank you for the manifold growth of your beauty experienced in this place. We make this novena to ask you for some truly material and spiritual (physical and personal) prayers."

"Dear Blessed Mother, intercede for us before God. Prayers of us all. We know well that it has happened you took a most special glimpse of His Divine Son, Jesus Christ, Mother of God, in our sanctuary, and gave us our response. It shows for us some grace with God's will for His glory and for our good and that of the whole world. Amen."

(They are Our Father, our Hail Mary and Glory Be)

Daang Grand Cross Award

Mariano Teodoro, the Philippine ambassador to the Vatican, received the Daang Grand Cross Award from Pope Benedict XVI last June 17 in Rome.

The award was established by Pope Pius XII in 1947 as a papal order of knighthood. This is the first year that Teodoro has been wearing a Philippine insignia, although many influential relations between the Philippines and the Holy See have. For instance, Secretary of State, chief protocol officer of the Vatican, and the archbishop of Manila, Cardinal Gaudencio Rosales, the Secretary of State, signed the archbishop's insignia. Teodoro was also given a medal of his mission awarded him with eight papal orders.

With the Ambassador were Deputy Chief of Mission and Consul General Danilo Egger, Executive Secretary Josephine Baring, and Fr. Jose Egger from the Capuchinians. Gerardo Misaelonobis is the.

Mass of Remembrance

The Proper Prayers of the Holy Spirit to everyone to take part in the Mass of the Remembrance on July 9, 11 a.m., at the Chapel of the Holy Spirit in the Blessed Virgin Mary Church of Cebu Cathedral.

The Mass is for those who died in the "Pugna tragedy" on July 2, 1999 during the Pagsanjan Festival in Iloilo, Iloilo, in which 279 persons died, including the people who died in the Boston River, for the 10th garbage scavenger from Iloilo, who was killed after under a pile of garbage on July 2, 2009 when a 54-ton garbage mountain collapsed on individuals, houses in the height of commercial zone.

We also remember and pray for the 1,200 people who died during the earthquake that registered 7.7 on the Richter scale on July 15, 1990. Among the cities in the Philippines that suffered the worst casualties and damages were Baguio, Dagupan and Cebu.

We especially remember the 1.1 million people who perished during the earthquake that hit Egger and Soria in July 1903 during the 12th century. This was caused by the destruction of the earthquake in the East Asia Mediterranean, and one of the most disasters in recorded history. The funeral mass of the saints is St. Stephen of London, which includes Fr. Jose Rosales.

THE Journal of the American Academy of Child and Adolescent Psychiatry is a peer-reviewed journal of research and clinical practice in child and adolescent psychiatry. It is the official journal of the American Academy of Child and Adolescent Psychiatry (AACAP). The journal is published quarterly and is available online and in print. The journal is a leading source of information for child and adolescent psychiatrists, researchers, and clinicians. The journal is a must-read for anyone interested in the field of child and adolescent psychiatry.

Results: The 12-month follow-up study revealed that 10% of the patients had a relapse of the disease. The relapse rate was significantly higher in patients with a history of relapse (20%) compared to patients with no history of relapse (5%).

Abstract The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a 12-week, low-intensity, supervised walking program on the physical and psychological health of sedentary, middle-aged women. The study was a randomized, controlled trial. The subjects were 40 sedentary, middle-aged women who were randomly assigned to either a supervised walking program or a control group. The walking program consisted of 12 weeks of supervised walking, 3 times per week, for 30 minutes per session. The control group consisted of 20 women who did not participate in the walking program. The physical and psychological health of the subjects was assessed at baseline and at 12 weeks. The results of the study showed that the walking program had a significant positive effect on the physical and psychological health of the subjects. The walking program significantly improved the subjects' physical health, as measured by the 6-minute walk test, and their psychological health, as measured by the Beck Depression Inventory and the State-Trait Anxiety Inventory. The walking program also significantly improved the subjects' quality of life, as measured by the SF-36. The results of this study suggest that a 12-week, low-intensity, supervised walking program can improve the physical and psychological health of sedentary, middle-aged women.

Abstract—The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a 10-week training program on the heart rate (HR) and energy expenditure (EE) of sedentary, middle-aged women. The subjects were 15 sedentary women, 30 to 45 years of age, who were randomly selected from a telephone directory. The subjects were divided into two groups: a control group and a training group. The control group consisted of 8 women who did not participate in any physical activity during the study. The training group consisted of 7 women who participated in a 10-week training program. The training program consisted of three sessions per week, each lasting 30 minutes. The sessions were performed on a stationary bike at a heart rate of 150 to 160 beats per minute. The HR and EE were measured at the beginning and end of the study. The HR and EE of the training group increased significantly after 10 weeks of training, while the HR and EE of the control group remained unchanged. The results of this study suggest that a 10-week training program can improve the HR and EE of sedentary, middle-aged women.

Pharmaceuticals
The pharmaceutical industry is a major contributor to the U.S. economy, with sales of over $200 billion in 2000. The industry is heavily regulated by the FDA, which requires extensive testing and documentation before a drug can be marketed. The industry is also subject to patent laws that grant exclusive rights to the manufacturer for a period of 20 years. This has led to the development of many new drugs, but also to high prices for consumers. The industry is facing increasing pressure to reduce costs and improve access to affordable medicines.

The new marketing mix has also been implemented with a new advertising campaign. The 1993 campaign, "The Power of the Sun," was designed to position the brand as the most powerful and effective tanning product. The campaign featured a series of black and white photographs of tanned models, with the tagline "The Power of the Sun" prominently displayed.

There is a growing body of evidence that the use of a single, standard, non-validated questionnaire to assess the prevalence of mental health problems in the community is likely to be unreliable. This is because the use of a single questionnaire may not be able to capture the full range of mental health problems, and the results may be biased by the way the questionnaire is designed and administered. The use of a single questionnaire may also be unreliable because the results may be affected by the way the questionnaire is administered, and the way the results are interpreted. Pinay indie actress topbills Singaporean film

Angeli Bayani bagged the plum role of a Filipino nanny in the international film, 'loilo'

By Raymond San Diego Jr.

MANILA and indie film actress Angeli Bayani revealed that her audition for Singaporean filmmaker Andrew Chen happened at a "tiny" day.

She shared a moment, however, she had just wrapped up work on the musical play "Mula" where she portrayed Lisa, the maid who's mostly on the screen but, but in the end, she was singing "Hindi, Hindi, Hindi," she felt a single tear drop coming down her cheek.

"The director got worried and asked if I were okay," she mentioned. "I explained that I was just tired."

As luck would have it, she soon received an email informing her of the good news: she had bagged the plum role of a Filipino nanny in the international film, "loilo."

Chen, whose short films have competed in Berlin and Cannes, said Singapore has been inspired by his own childhood in making his feature film debut.

"It's his father in the Filipino nanny who raised him," she said. "It's about the conflict between two cultures... how Singaporeans are coming to terms with the idea that their children are being cared for by Filipinos."

It was a much-coveted role among the current crop of local indie actresses. "On Facebook, my friends, who also asked me for the same part, congratulated me," she recalled.

Then, it hit her. These colleagues are not only sweet-smiling, they are among the most talented in her batch as well.

"I felt so bad," she said. "Instead of focusing on my significant career move, I thought of my child. It came at the right time... because my 4-year-old son Mark has started going to school."

A much-delayed reward

Previously, she appeared in French film "Honey" (Honey of the Sea) and US production "The Mule" (Greatest). This latest international project, however, is a much-delayed reward for Bayani who has been doing away onscreen and onstage for years.

ANGELI Bayani says her small son Mark is extremely happy for her latest role in the film "loilo".

She played a damaged mother ("loilo") and a gay man ("Honey") and a big bag ("The Mule") in the past. She played a mother ("loilo") and a gay man ("Honey") and a big bag ("The Mule") in the past. She played a mother ("loilo") and a gay man ("Honey") and a big bag ("The Mule") in the past.

But, "loilo" felt like a new challenge for the understated actress.

Making teachers proud

She looks at the international exposure as a chance to make her teachers proud. "I'm a teacher's daughter... starting with English in the Philippines. I was all this to my teachers, Miss Alcantara and Miss Velasco-Lin," she pointed out. "As every performance, I want to honor my teachers... to show when they watch my work."

They won't be embarrassed to say that I was their student."

She reported her Singaporean actor as an opportunity to push herself as an artist. "I am embracing my education."

The only Filipino in the cast of "loilo," she flew to Singapore to film and headed straight to work.

Although the shoot was challenging, it taught her to fight for her beliefs and trust her instincts.

A single mom's dilemma

She understood her character's dilemma as a single mother. "I've always been open and approachable. I believe in making connections with your co-workers wherever you are. I wanted to be from the heart, from the inside and the outside."

TOM CRUISE

Some women see in his relationships an emerging pattern of psychological 'mis-use' of his marital partners

ACTION-ADVENTURE Star Tom Cruise turned 50 last week—but the celebration has been muted due to the recent death of his wife, Katie Holmes, to leave her after only five years of marriage. He's reportedly seeking sole custody of their only child, but he will have to wait for the court to decide. Cruise's last, but not least, relationship was with Holmes (Globe Catholic).

He's going to be a success after meeting with his "Miles" (Globe Catholic) and for every young woman in "Back of Her Head."

A control freak?

Yes, why did Katie leave him when he was at the top?

 World Vision

National Director

World Vision Development Foundation

(Manila-based)

Your opportunity to use your world-class leadership skills to play a key role in effectively improving the lives of children and families of the Philippines.

World Vision International (WVI) is a Christian relief and development organization dedicated to helping children and their communities worldwide reach their full potential by tackling the causes of poverty. World Vision helps transform the lives of the world's poorest children and families in nearly 100 countries. Our programs work across assistance to all people, regardless of their religious beliefs, gender, race, or ethnic background.

The National Director for World Vision Development Foundation (WV Philippines) will lead, direct, develop, and manage the implementation of all aspects of World Vision's ministry in the Philippines as an effective member of the World Vision International Global Partnership, and to ensure there is high impact, cost effective, quality ministry with the highest levels of accountability according to the relevant policies, protocols and standards of World Vision.

We are looking for a visionary leader who can combine strong business disciplines with inspirational leadership skills in line with our Christian values and ethos. You will have a passionate desire to help others, especially children.

RESPONSIBILITIES INCLUDE:

- Lead the development and execution of the country strategy through programme approaches and operating plans with clear, measurable short-term and long-term targets; ensure country strategy is aligned with Regional and Global Centre strategic priorities
- Engage key stakeholders nationally and the global partnership in the understanding and execution of the country strategy
- Develop and maintain capacity to respond to natural and man-made emergencies in partnership with local and international governments and other partners (including NGOs, INGOs, etc.)
- Capitalize the gains of the past to enhance current and future ministry directions and bring the ministry to a higher level in terms of marketing, programme innovation, scaling up of programmes, engagement of public and partnering partnerships
- Ensure that the National Office functions in a contextualized, complementary, sensitive and cohesive manner where the core values, principles of interdependence and twin citizenship enhance the relevance of WV Philippines ministry and its distinct contribution to national development as well as guide the contribution it makes to the Partnership and the use of WV Partnership resources
- Manage overall financial integrity of the programmes to WV office, sponsors and donors, the government and other partners and stakeholders
- Build strong rapport with Board members and the WVDF Leadership Team
- Demonstrate the ability to engage and advocate with Philippine government leaders and legislators at the national and local levels on policy making and implementation of laws to address issues of poverty and children's concerns in the country
- Lead the development and implementation of a Disaster Management and Disaster Risk Reduction national strategy
- Will have excellent understanding of microfinance institutions (MFI) management and operations

REQUIRED SKILLS INCLUDE:

- Candidate must be intimately familiar with the cultural and socio-economic realities of the Philippines
- At least 10 years of senior leadership including experience as the Country Director or higher leadership level of a large international NGO with ministries/services similar to WVDF (e.g. child sponsorship, rural and urban development, micro-enterprises) OR Experience in the corporate world as CEO of a complex multi-national organization or an organization with an international focus
- Being a leader as defined above of a complex organization, business or department with annual budget of $10M USD and staff over 300
- Has strong marketing, public relations, and fundraising experience with ability to engage a wide range of stakeholders and cultures particularly in Philippine context
- Bachelor's degree required. Graduate degree strongly preferred.

Will you use your leadership skills to further "life in all its fullness" for children?

For specific details regarding the position, please refer to the full job description and apply online at <http://jobs.wvi.org/worldjobs/wvIND-WVDF> by the closing date 15 July 2012. For more information on World Vision International, please visit our website www.wvi.org. World Vision is an equal opportunity employer.

Introducing the Risk Analysis and Microbial Risk Assessment (MRA) and the application of Predictive Microbiology to MRA and HACCP

THE FOOD DEVELOPMENT CENTER (FDC) of the National Food Authority (NFA) will conduct a training course on the "Introduction of Risk Analysis and Microbial Risk Assessment (IRMA) and the Application of Predictive Microbiology to MRSA and HACCP" on August 9-10, 2002 from 8:00 AM to 5:00 PM at the Food Development Center (FDC) Compound, FFA Compound, Naga City.

Food-borne diseases continue to contribute to the worldwide burden of communicable and zoonotic diseases, posing a significant public health challenge. According to the World Health Organization (WHO), up to 25 million people die each year from communicable diseases, with food-borne diseases accounting for a significant proportion of these deaths. The burden of food-borne diseases is likely to increase in the coming decades, particularly in developing countries, where food and waterborne diseases are a leading cause of morbidity and mortality. In 2002, WHO estimated that 1.2 million people died each year from communicable diseases, with food-borne diseases accounting for 1.2 million deaths. Changing global patterns have created an increasingly demanding environment in which to study food-borne diseases, with a need to develop new strategies to reduce the burden of these diseases. This article will discuss the current state of knowledge on food-borne diseases, the challenges facing researchers, and the need for a more integrated approach to the study of these diseases.

Revisions of risk analysis will include brief discussion of the three major components: risk management, assessment and risk communication. Effective controls are already in place and measures focus on microbial risk assessment will help participants better understand how the hazards in human subjects in HACCP should be avoided, and how the hazard controls are designed. Computer-generated predictive and probability models used in risk assessment will be described and discussed.

in his scientific and professional career. Smart Araneta Coliseum Extreme Transformation

The Smart Araneta Coliseum, also known as the Big Dome, has been host to numerous iconic moments in Philippine sports and entertainment history. It is the venue of the sporting events such as the FIBA, UAAP, and NCAA. At the same time, top music acts that played at the Big Dome include the Black Eyed Peas, Maroon 5, Kylie Minogue, Lady Gaga, L'Oréal Paris, Taylor Swift, and Inocencia. It secured its place in boxing and basketball history as the venue of the famous "Timbal in Manila" and "NBA All-Star Weekend." Apart from these, the Big Dome also has an honorable place in history as the place that Binayon John Paul II awarded as "the coliseum of pop culture." In present, the Big Dome hosts more than 120 events a year.

Because of this, the Big Dome treasures its unique connection with generations of fans, international and local performing artists and legions of athletic heroes since its first show in 1952.

RED GATE LOBBY

ENHANCED experience: Coliseum patrons will rediscover a state-of-the-art venue that's as unforgettable as the events that happen here.

A NEW UNIQUE VIEWING EXPERIENCE

The Big Dome is deep into its EXTREME TRANSFORMATION. Not only will its customers enjoy the prestige of watching their favorite sporting event and enter its venue with such a storied history, it will also do so with extreme stellar pleasure. Michael Nash, Chief Operating Officer of the Smart Araneta Coliseum, says: "The Extreme Transformation of the Big Dome begins with the majestic facade and interior of the new Green Gate. The Green Gate welcomes everyone to state-of-the-art features starting with the big get entrance, improved looks for retail stations at the perimeter for sponsor and more efficient audience entry, and a concourse with LED signage, climate-controlled space and video systems." Nash further explains, "The transformation gets even more exciting when the customer enters the Coliseum and approaches its new exit. There will be new flooring, ceilings, lighting and seats for better comfort. There will also be more new rooms with better features."

Nash said that the Big Dome also boasts of the tiled structure and classic columns, making a statement that every international standard. "Unlike other arenas, our structure is just right. Audiences, especially kids who get easily excited during halftime and lobby shows, need not worry about falling over themselves in steeply-sloped seats," Nash emphasizes.

Adding to these perks are the convenience of getting plus access points to the shopping and dining options in and outside the Coliseum. Through the new parking buildings second and third levels, customers can enter the Coliseum and to their respective sections with ease. One can also find a whole lot of dining and shopping options before and after Coliseum events at the newly redeveloped Gateway Mall as at the Coliseum Circle.

GREEN GATE LOBBY

EXCITING design: A new look and a new spirit is coming to the Smart Araneta Coliseum.

GRAND ATRIUM

MODERN amenities: The historic arena is currently undergoing a complete overhaul, helping to boost fan transformation.

A HAVEN FOR ATHLETES, PERFORMERS AND PROMOTERS

PHOTOGRAPH BY MICHAEL J. SUTHERLAND

But the visitors are not the only ones to benefit from the Big Dome's EXTREME TRANSFORMATION. Even the performers and players are in for a great surprise.

Athletes and sports fans will love how the new sports lighting that will track the Caliente's position. The construction consultants made sure that acoustics, floor and playing conditions are excellent and at par with the world's best arenas.

Close to the back-of-house, promoters, artists and athletes will love the new locker rooms. The media will also love its designated press room equipped with all the technological tools to transmit their stories in real time.

With a transformation as extreme as this, there is no doubt that just like the Hudson Square Garden, the Big Dome will continue to be the cultural icon of the country.

GROUND FLOOR CONCOURSE

EXTREME changes. The Big Dome will soon showcase a new parking building, a grand atrium, new first-class F&B, more comfortable seating, a dynamic scoreboard, and many more.
